

NATIONAL RAIL LINK-UP QUALIFICATION SUCCESS

Recognised throughout the rail industry, Link-Up provides a single qualification process for suppliers that are shared by Network Rail and over 100 rail organisations.

In order to qualify for the scheme, companies must undergo an annual audit of their safety-critical products and services. The audit on Clarke Telecom comprised a core system audit to ensure Clarke Telecom's management systems met Network Rail requirements for suppliers of services that import risk onto Network Rail Managed Infrastructure. Additionally, Clarke Telecom's management systems for the specialist service area of building works and services were assessed.

Clarke Telecom has been undertaking design, construction works, servicing, maintenance, electrical installations and testing for over ten years. The Link-up Audit Approval verified that Clarke Telecom is qualified to undertake these works on Network Rail property projects.

The new supplier category qualifications compliments Clarke Telecom's existing Link-up service categories as a supplier of power management services and metering services.
